Christopher Rob Robinson, who is accredited with almost as many descendants as are William Byrd and Nat. Bacon, had very few and none of his name. Nancy Moore had only one child, Lucy Haherd, who married Benjamin Robinson, a kinsman of the Speaker, and left Miss Nannie Robinson, now of Richmond; Leiper Robinson, Esq., and the late Benjamin Robinson. Peyton Randolph Nelson had only two sons, who married—William Wilmer Nelson, the father of Mrs. W. T. Robins and Mrs. H. W. Jones, and Reginald Heber Nelson, now living at the "Codars," near Richmond, and who has children. These Robinsons and Nelsons are the only descendants of Speaker John Robinson. He was married three times—first to a Miss Story, of England. She died in childbirth, and her child simply breathed and then died; but this feeble breath meant much to John Robinson. He inherited from this child, who inherited it from its mother, a plum—an English term which, if I am not mistaken, means enough pounds to make one vely confortable. His second wife was Lucy Moore, of Chelred, and his third, by whom alone he had children, was Lucy Chiswell.
